Note: This equipment intentionally uses frequency signals which overlap with frequencies whose intensity (harmonics between 100 Hz and 2 kHz) and voltage (radio emissions above 9 kHz) levels are limited. Therefore, these limits can be surpassed when the equipment is in operation. However, since the unit is only connected to power grids for very short periods of time (generated signals during operation have very short duration), it is considered not to be subject to create EMC problems in such networks.
